Reconciliation Statement

The South Australian Heritage Council (the Council) acknowledges that the land on which it meets is the traditional lands of the Kurna people and that it respects their spiritual relationship with their country. The Council also acknowledges the Kurna people as the custodians of the greater Adelaide region and that their cultural and heritage beliefs are still important to the living Kurna people today. In fulfilling its functions, the Council is cognisant of the cultural and natural heritage of traditional owners.

The entry of the Dickson House was subsequently confirmed, while the other four are still subject to the three month period for persons to make submissions to Council before it considers confirmation.

Heritage Directions Working Group

This short-term working group was established to progress an update of the document Heritage Directions: A Future for Built Heritage in South Australia, for the Minister for Environment and Conservation (the Minister). The members of the sub-committee include Ms Wigg, Dr Brine and Dr Staniforth. It is chaired by the Council Chair, Ms Carr.

The working group will produce status reports on key achievements in implementation of the South Australian Government's policy framework for built heritage and provide advice on 'lessons learnt' to the Minister. In line with this, the working group is tasked to develop recommendations for the refinement of the Heritage Directions policy framework. This includes aligning with South Australia's Strategic Plan, collaborating with other agencies and sectors, suggesting linkages between built heritage and other forms of heritage, and identifying key targets to be achieved over the next three to five years for each of the Key Directions identified by the Council.

The working group has scoped the work required and will complete the tasks set by the Minister in the next financial year.

Mining Heritage Working Group

In 2008 the Council established a Mining Heritage working group to provide support for the National and World Heritage nomination processes. The working group included representatives from the Australian Mining History Association, National Trust of South Australia, Primary Industries and Resources South Australia, South Australian Tourism Commission, and the South Australian Chamber of Mines & Energy. The group is chaired by Council member, Mr Lewis Owens.

The Australian Government's Minister for the Environment, Heritage and the Arts, Hon Peter Garrett, announced in June 2009 that the Australian Cornish Mining Heritage Site (comprising the Moonta Mines and Burra State Heritage Areas) had been included in the 2009-10 Finalised Priority Assessment List for the National Heritage List. The assessment process is expected to be completed by June 2011.

The Council also nominated the Burra and Moonta Mines sites for the World Heritage Tentative List in October 2008 as part of an intended Trans-National listing, involving sites in Australia, Mexico and South Africa. The World Heritage Tentative List nomination is still under consideration by the Australian Government.

Communications Working Group

The Communications working group has been established to develop the Council's communication policy and procedures, and direct the development of the Council's web presence. The working group consists of Mr Rob Donaldson, Chair, and Dr Christine Garnaut, member.

Information to be included on the Council's website includes background on the Council, its achievements and its members. The working group is anticipated to have completed its tasks by the end of 2009.

Administration of the Heritage Places Act 1993

Administration of the South Australian Heritage Register

The South Australian Heritage Register is a list of places of heritage value to the State. A place may be State heritage listed if it meets one or more of the criteria specified in section 16 of the Heritage Places Act 1993 (refer to Appendix B - Information about the South Australian Heritage Register as at 30 June 2009).

In 2008-09 five State Heritage Places were provisionally entered in the Register and one provisional entry was confirmed. The confirmed entry was especially significant in terms of the State's post-war domestic architecture, and is detailed below. All other activities are detailed in Appendix A. There were 2,208 confirmed entries in the Register at 30 June 2009.

View of the Dickson House from the south-east

The Dickson House at Rostrevor has unique and significant associations with the life and work of the architect Robert Dickson, and demonstrates a high degree of creative, aesthetic and technical accomplishment as well as being an influential representative of modern organic design and construction. In particular, the way in which the place relates to its site, its outstanding quality and integrity, and the fact that it has been internationally recognised as one of Australia's most architecturally-notable mid-20th-century houses provide it with outstanding significance in the context of South Australia's architectural development.

South Australian Heritage Fund

Section 12(2) of the Heritage Places Act 1993 requires the Minister to seek and consider the Council's advice (from a strategic perspective) on the management and application of the South Australian Heritage Fund, which is administered to support the conservation of non-government owned buildings. Conservation of government-owned heritage buildings is administered through the Historic Buildings Conservation Program managed by Building Management, a division of the Department for Transport, Energy and Infrastructure.

The South Australian Heritage Fund Grants Program had funding of $250,000 in 2008-09. There were 87 applicants for grants from the Fund seeking in excess of $569,000 for projects with a combined total cost in excess of $2m. Forty-three offers were made for grants from the program. Twenty-three projects have been completed. The project completion date was extended until 30 September 2009 due to the late awarding of the grants (December 2008) to enable grantees more time to complete their projects.

Heritage Agreements

Heritage Agreements are a 'covenant', a form of contract between owners of land and the State Government to protect certain aspects of a heritage place in perpetuity. A Heritage Agreement attaches to the land and is binding on the current owner of the land whether or not that owner was the person with whom the agreement was made. A Heritage Agreement is, to the extent specified in the agreement, binding on the occupier of the land.

The Minister may, after seeking and considering the advice of the Council, enter into a heritage agreement or, by agreement with the owner of the land to which a heritage agreement applies, vary or terminate an agreement.

At its February 2006 meeting the Council followed the lead of the former State Heritage Authority and resolved to delegate its role of providing advice to the Minister on varying or terminating heritage agreements relating to native vegetation to the Executive Officer of the Native Vegetation Council. This action followed advice from the Crown Solicitor's Office that certain native vegetation Heritage Agreements established under the South Australian Heritage Act 1978-80 had to be dealt with under the Heritage Places Act 1993. Specifically, native vegetation Heritage Agreements entered into between 1980 and 1985 must be dealt with under the Heritage Places Act 1993 and cannot be dealt with under the Native Vegetation Act 1991. It is intended that this anomaly will be remedied by amending the latter Act.

No new Heritage Agreements were recommended this year. As at 30 June 2009, four heritage agreements were in place relating to the following properties: Belmont, Brougham Place, North Adelaide; St Vigeans Estate Garden, Laurel Road, Stirling; the former Bank SA, Gawler Street, Mount Barker; and Beechwood Garden and Conservatory, Snows Road, Stirling.

State Heritage Areas

Under the Heritage Places Act 1993, the Council recommends the creation of State Heritage Areas, which are created through the process of preparing Development Plan Amendments under the provisions of the Development Act 1993. No new Areas were recommended this year.

Other Matters

Heritage Chairs and Officials of Australia and New Zealand (HCOANZ)

The August 2008 meeting of HCOANZ was held in Canberra and was attended by Ms Mary Marsland. The February 2009 meeting was held in Adelaide. This meeting, chaired by the new Council Chair, Ms Judith Carr, attracted full attendance of Chairs from all States and Territories, the Australian Government and New Zealand. Very positive feedback was received on the meeting and other associated activities, including the official dinner at Ayers House and the tour of maritime and built heritage sites in Willunga.

The meeting culminated with a decision by the Chairs to write to the Prime Minister, Premiers, Chief Ministers and Senator Nick Xenophon regarding the need for funding from the stimulus package for conservation work on heritage places.

Adelaide Park Lands

Before progressing listing of the Park Lands in South Australia, the Council had decided to await the outcome of the national process of assessing a nomination for National Heritage listing of the Adelaide Park Lands and City Layout, submitted to the Australian Heritage Council.

On 7 November 2008 the Australian Government Minister for Environment, Heritage and the Arts, the Hon Peter Garrett, included the Adelaide Park Lands and City Layout on the National Heritage List. The implications of that listing are now being considered by the Council.

Review of Policies and Procedures

The Council commenced a review of its policies and procedures and adopted a number of these during the year. These new policy and procedures were put forward in keeping with various sections of the Council's strategic plan, the Heritage Places Act 1993 and SASP.

The procedures adopted were:

- Accountability – to prescribe ways the Council meets its accountability duty.
- Delegation of South Australian Heritage Council's powers and functions – to ensure that delegations of powers and functions are made in accordance with Heritage Places Act 1993, and Council's policy on delegations.
- Communications – to define the media protocol of the South Australian Heritage Council and the purpose of the content of Council's website.
- Meetings – to establish procedures for Council meetings.

The policies adopted were:

- Delegation of South Australian Heritage Council's powers and functions – defines the process for delegation of functions.
- Advice to the Minister on heritage protection trends, shortcomings and opportunities – defines the process for the submission of six-monthly reports to the Minister.

Development of a Three-Year Strategic Plan

The new Council has developed a draft Strategic Plan to set priorities for the Council's work for the next three (3) years. The Plan has been provided to the Minister for comment prior to finalisation.

Forums with Stakeholders

The Council has decided to increase its engagement with key stakeholders through a series of community forums.

Council commenced these forums in the previous financial year. One forum was held this financial year on the topic of how to encourage various sectors to contribute to and promote heritage, whilst also encouraging them to see how heritage contributes to the economy, and gives greater value to developments.

The reports from these forums are being finalised. Advice will be provided in the next six-monthly report to the Minister.

Ombudsman's Enquiry

The Burnside Council requested that the Ombudsman investigate the Council's processes in regard to its handling of Council's nominations for three places at the Glenside Hospital.

The Ombudsman awaited the assessment of the two final nominations before making a determination on this matter. In May 2009 the former Cottage Wards (Former Female R2 and Former X Wards), Glenside Hospital, Glenside were provisionally entered in the SA Heritage Register. The Ombudsman is expected to finalise the investigation early in the coming financial year.

Appendix C – The South Australian Heritage Fund 2008 - 2009

The South Australian Heritage Fund (the Fund) exists for the purpose of providing funds in the furtherance of the objects of the Heritage Places Act 1993 (the Act).

In accordance with the Act, the South Australian Heritage Council (the Council) provides strategic advice to the Minister for Environment and Conservation (the Minister) in relation to the management and application of the Fund.

As specified in section 10 of the Act, the Fund consists of any monies:

- appropriated by Parliament for the purposes of the Fund;
- provided by the Government of the Commonwealth;
- received by the Council by way of fees, gift, bequest or in any other way;
- received by the Minister by way of gift, bequest or in any other way;
- any income derived from investment of the Fund; and
- any other money that is required or authorised by or under this Act to be paid into the Fund.

Section 12 of the Act provides that the Minister 'may apply money from the Fund in furtherance of the objects of this Act' and further requires that the Minister 'must, in relation to the management and application of the Fund, seek and consider any advice (provided from a strategic perspective) from the Council'.

The Fund meets the accounting criteria of a controlled entity and is accounted for in the Department for Environment and Heritage's Financial Statements and Annual Report.
